

NIGHT EDITION

M'LAUGHLIN SEEKS LIBERTY.

Counsel for the Convicted Police Inspector Striving for His Release.

DRAWING UP APPEAL PAPERS.

To Be Arraigned for Sentence June 17, and Would Like to Give Bail Meanwhile.

HE HAS TO SLEEP ON THE FLOOR.

The Tombs Congested with Prisoners, as a Result of the Long Trial.

Interest in the case of Police Inspector William W. McLaughlin centres today in the efforts of his counsel to get him out of jail on bail pending an appeal.

McLaughlin is taking things philosophically in the Tombs, and according to Warden Fallon, is exhibiting great pluck in the face of the trying circumstances in which he finds himself.

The inability to sleep which attended his first night's incarceration in a Tombs cell has passed away, and last night he slumbered soundly on the mattress and pillow which were sent to him from his home.

The Inspector's long trial is in the main responsible for his present crowded quarters.

Whenever the Criminal Court machinery is blocked by long-drawn-out trials the Tombs Prison becomes congested. Prisoners pile upon the Warden's hands faster than they can be gotten rid of by the courts.

Warden Fallon said today that McLaughlin had received no visitors up to noon.

No member of his family has yet been to see him. This is at the Inspector's request. His wife is seriously ill at her home, 449 West Twenty-third street, the result of the shock she sustained upon hearing the news of her husband's conviction. Mrs. McLaughlin and the children were confident that the Inspector would be acquitted.

The report that ex-Ward Man "Jimmy" Burns intended to return from Europe, where he fled last January after his indictment for blackmail, and by his evidence attempt to clear McLaughlin, is scouted at by Lawyer Fred House, who is Burns's counsel. Mr. House said that Burns could risk the Inspector no good at this time and would be taking too great a personal risk by coming back to New York now.

Lawyers James and Elkus are busy today drawing the papers in the motion for a new trial, which will be applied for before Justice Barrett next week.

LIFE-SAVERS IN COURT.

Strange Complications in a Suit on Trial for Murder.

The hearing in the suit of Fannie Gobel against Bernard Paneth for slander was commenced today before Justice McCarthy and a jury in the City Court.

The plaintiff, nineteen years old, appears by Guardian Jacob Fabian, her brother-in-law. She alleges that on Dec. 30, 1894, the defendant, who is the owner of 30 Columbia street, in which her sister, Mrs. Fabian, was a tenant, entered the apartments and called her an immoral name and said her sister's apartments were used for immoral purposes. She seeks to recover $5,000 damages.

The defendant, in his answer, states that he found a number of women seated in men's laps. He admits he told Mrs. Fabian's company his opinion of the place, but did not know he was directing his remarks to Miss Gobel.

Mrs. Fabian today denied the allegations. She said on the evening in question, a group of young men and women in her apartments were members of the "Young Independent Hero Society," a social club which she had derived its name from several of its members having performed heroic feats in life-saving at Coney Island, and that none of these young men or women conducted themselves improperly.

A number of young heroes and heroines were present in court to corroborate Mrs. Fabian.

FOUR MEN INJURED.

Stilettes and Pistols Freely Used in an East River Fight.

RAHWAY, N. J., June 10.—A free fight, in which stilettes and pistols were freely used and four men injured, took place in East Rahway last night. The Italians working on the sewer have a camp in the woods and a number of them became very drunk yesterday. About 8 o'clock in the evening they strolled into town singing and playing on accordions.

At Monroe and Montgomery streets a dozen of the town boys were sitting. There is sickness in the house of Julian Keefe, two doors from the corner. As the Italians reached this place the boys came forward and told them to stop playing.

Blows passed between the leaders of each party and a minute later the neighborhood was started by the sound of several pistol shots in rapid succession. In the fight that followed three of the town boys were injured. The next one of the Italians was carried away by two of his comrades and left a trail of blood for more than half a mile.

Later a great crowd gathered, and for a time it looked as if there would be a general attack on the Italian camp. The Italian leader, however, was not so easily intimidated. "Guinea," as this part of the city is called, bitterly resents the affair, and will not allow any action which will bring on a race war.

PLACES FOR $40 EACH.

Unknown Men Make Vague Charges of Selling Jobs.

It is charged that places in the Street Cleaning Department are being retailed at $40 each.

Vito Urso, of 113 Elizabeth street, is alleged to have paid that sum to a man named Henriques and secured his present position.

The charge was made to the private secretary of the Mayor at the City Hall today. The Mayor was not at his office. Two Italians, who refused to give their names, stated that they had been offered places in the Street Cleaning Department for $40, and that a number of their fellow workers had accepted the same offer. Vito Urso was one of them.

Mr. Henriques, who is a well-known figure in the city, approached Urso two weeks ago and said that he could get him a sweeper's position for $40. Urso paid the money and secured the place.

Mr. Henriques returned to the story. He said he had heard such stories before. The Italian Urso had probably been imposed upon by a sharper, he said.

A THIEF IN FELLOWS' OFFICE

Declaration of Recorder Goff When Told of More Missing Papers.

ON HIS METTLE TO PUNISH.

Says He Will Make an Example of Whoever Is at the Bottom of It.

AN ASSAULT CASE THIS TIME.

Indie-men's Against Biddle and Gallery, Found 18 Months Ago, Gone.

More papers are missing from the District-Attorney's office, and this time Recorder Goff has decided to not only make an investigation, but to make an example of whoever may be responsible for their loss or abstraction.

There is a thief in the District-Attorney's office," was Recorder Goff's declaration to a reporter today.

"Is suspicion directed against any one man?" was asked.

The Recorder refused to answer. A case of assault against August Biddle and Adolph Gallery was put down for trial in Part III, Court of General Sessions, for May 22. Assistant District-Attorney Bradley was conducting the prosecutions in that court that day. The papers were in his possession on that day. Since that day the papers have not been seen and they cannot now be found in the office of the Chief Clerk of the District-Attorney nor in the office of the Chief Clerk of the General Sessions.

Since that day the papers have not been seen and they cannot now be found in the office of the Chief Clerk of the District-Attorney nor in the office of the Chief Clerk of the General Sessions.

The indictments against the two men are eighteen months old. Just what the indictment is could not be told by any one in the District-Attorney's today, as the papers were all gone.

Biddle is now in the Tombs, Gallery is out on bail.

The case was on the calendar several times, but was put off for one reason or another, and each time previous to May 22 the papers were returned to the office of the District-Attorney's Chief Clerk.

On Jan. 7 last papers in the case against Policemen Kerwin J. Larkin, John Kenney and Michael A. Downs, charged with battery and extortion, were lost. A vigorous search was made for them, but they could not be found. Some one of the policemen had bragged that his case would never come to trial as he had "fixed" the District-Attorney's Office.

The late Judge Martine heard of this boast and directed the desk of Assistant District-Attorney Bradley be opened and searched. He had charge of the case. The papers were found in the desk.

Mr. Bradley explained that the papers had been in his desk a long time, and he could not remember, or said he couldn't, any of the occurrences of which he had under oath told the jury.

Without any witnesses being called, and without any statement being taken, the name of an insurance adjuster named Lyon was mentioned as having been in the desk, and it was expected that the name of Lyon would be mentioned in the trial.

Several of the cases of missing indictments were investigated by the Grand Jury today.

HAWLEY FACES THE GROOMS.

Pittsburg Puts Up a Lively Fight at Eastern Park.

(Special to The Evening World.) EASTERN PARK, BROOKLYN, June 10.—Capt. Jake Beckley and his fighting ball-players from the Smoky City put in their appearance here this afternoon for try conclusions with the Bridgegrasses.

The disgraceful scenes in their game at New York on Saturday were fresh in the minds of the rooters, and the bleachers looked ready for trouble.

Killen, the Pittsburg pitcher, will not be able to pitch again for several days, as his right leg was badly sprained. Ed Stein, the Brooklyn pitcher, who has been at Hot Springs nursing his arm for several weeks, returned home yesterday and practised with the team before the game.

Gus Gannon, the nineteen-year-old left-hand pitcher, recently secured by Pittsburg, made a great impression before the game by his excellent pitching.

The Barring Order: Brooklyn, Griffon, cf. Donovan, rf. Corcoran, ss. Higgins, lb. Beckley, 1b. Stenzel, cf. Smith, cf. Shindler, 3b. Kelly, 2b. Anderson, M. Kennedy, p. Hawley, c. Grim, ut. Emphre, Mr. McDonald.

When Emphre McDonald yelled "play ball," 3,000 persons were present, and Pittsburg took the bat.

First Inning. Patsy Dorovian sent a hot grounder to Dally, which he fumbled, allowing Patsy to reach second. He was caught stealing second. Corcoran made a pretty pick up of Clingman's grounder and retired him at first. Beckley flied to Tredway, no runs.

Second Inning. Griffon's high foul fly went to Kinslow. Donovan got Corcoran's difficult fly. La Chance beat Clingman's throw on his knee. He was caught stealing second. No runs.

Stenzel's high fly was grabbed by Anderson. Smith also flied to the same fielder out. Dally to La Chance. No runs.

Tredway's grounder was flied to Beckley and got him to indolence for $5,000, applied to the surrogate to-day. Griffon flied out. Anderson sent a grounder to Clingman, who flied too late to catch him. Anderson reached first. Grim out. Herbauer to Beckley. No runs.

WEINER HELD FOR PERJURY.

Fire Marshal Mitchell's Tipster Waives Examination.

Morris Weiner, of 26 East Fourth street, was held by Justice Duell in the Yorkville Court this afternoon in $500 bail for trial upon a charge of perjury.

Weiner made a sworn statement May 29 last, to Fire Marshal Mitchell that he was present Jan. 1, 1895, in the apartments of a man named Rosenbloom in the tenement, 26 East Fourth street, when Morris Schoenholz entered into an agreement with the fire marshal to burn the house.

Weiner was sworn to set fire to the house for three days after the war, and Weiner said on the night of the fire he had seen Schoenholz enter the house.

On this testimony Schoenholz was arrested, but he could not remember, or said he couldn't, any of the occurrences of which he had under oath told the jury.

Without any witnesses being called, and without any statement being taken, the name of an insurance adjuster named Lyon was mentioned as having been in the desk, and it was expected that the name of Lyon would be mentioned in the trial.

WAS IT SO DRY AT CONEY?

Anybody Who Had the Price Had No Trouble in Getting a Drink.

WILL SUE THE VANDERBILTS.

W. H. A. Brown Wants $2,000,000 for Profits of Steamships.

The Claim Dates Back to the Days of the Commodore.

William H. A. Brown, who has begun proceedings against the heirs of the late Commodore Vanderbilt, to recover $2,000,000 for profits of steamships, through Attorney W. H. Randel, for letters of administration of his father's estate, so as to ascertain what interest, if any, the late William A. Brown had in the estate of Commodore Vanderbilt.

It was the initial step in what promises to be a protracted litigation. When letters of administration are granted, Mr. Brown will bring suit against the executors of the Vanderbilt estate for an accounting of earnings of certain vessels, which it is alleged the late Commodore illegally converted to his own use and profit.

The late William A. Brown and the late Commodore Vanderbilt were friends and neighbors in 1861, when the former became financially embarrassed. He secured a loan from Mr. Vanderbilt of $50,000, and got him to indorse notes for $50,000, giving as security a bill of sale on three steamships, with the understanding that the proceeds were to be used to pay the earnings of the vessels more than liquidated his father's indebtedness to the late Commodore.

The object of the suit is to recover from the Vanderbilt estate all the profits of the three vessels from 1861.

NOW FOR THE DOCK BOARD.

The Tammany Regime to Be Thoroughly Overhauled.

An expert from the office of the Commissioners of Accounts went to work this morning on the accounts of the old Dock Board to ascertain if there were irregularities as kept by Tammany officers. The examination is expected to last three weeks, and if anything is discovered that will warrant a public investigation, witnesses will be summoned.

The money to provide for the investigation will come out of the $100,000 appropriated by the Legislature to enable the Commissioners to conduct a thorough investigation into the affairs of the department, in which they have reason to suspect there has been crooked dealing.

When public examinations are opened, it is likely the three old Commissioners, Lewis and Tully, slightly warmer, North and James J. Phelan, will be called as witnesses. It is intended to inquire particularly into the methods employed in giving out leases.

The Commissioners will have the assistance of a lawyer.
